

Every year, the Men's Club sends a yellow candle to every member of the congregation, asking them to light them on Yom Hashoah to commemorate the Holocaust.

While in the past we've gotten help from students at B'nai's Hebrew School, this year we need to ask you to pitch in instead.

We need 10 to 12 volunteers this week to drive to B'nai to pick up candles, letters from the rabbis and the Men's Club co-presidents, donation envelopes and packing supplies. You'd assemble everything at home and then return the completed package to the synagogue for mailing. If you can help, we'll send you no more than 100 candles. You can do them in one evening while watching Team Israel in the World Baseball Classic and be done before the late innings.

Some of us will be assembling the materials this week for you to pick up, package and return to us. We hope to have everything done by end of Wednesday for you to then stop by the synagogue.

If you can help, we'll send you detailed information and provide our gratitude and thanks.

Please let us know ASAP if you can help by replying to this email and Rob Loewy, rkloewy@gmail.com, who every year does yeoman's work putting this project together.

Thank you.
